INTESTINAL IMPACTION.

Horrible Death of a Little Boy At Kelly.

Operation Performed, But Too Late to Save His Life.

A little son of Thomas Brasher, of Kelly, died Saturday from worms. The little fellow had been suffering greatly for some time and finally his stomach became very much distended and his sufferings were so excruciating that his physicians determined upon an operation. On Friday morning, three physicians taking part in the operation, the child's stomach was opened and a large ball of worms, some dead but most of them living, was taken from his bowels. There were in the impaction 103 worms varying in length from five to nine inches. The operation appeared to give the needed relief, but the child was so weak that he could not survive the shock and died the next day.

Colored Coal Miner Struck Near Bradshaw Crossing.

Had Been At Work At Empire And Was Probably Enroute Home.

Bone Townsell, col., of Allensville, was killed by the cars near Bradshaw's crossing, two miles south of this city Sunday morning. Corner Allensworth held an inquest and the jury returned the following verdict:

We, the jury, summoned to look into the cause of the death of an unknown colored man, found dead on the L. & N. railroad track about 500 yards north of the Bradshaw crossing, find that said man seemed to be about 24 years old. On or about this person was found a bunch of keys with a coal miner's tag on same, No. 531, also a pencil and a pay roll bearing the name of Bone Townsell. Said pay roll was from the Empire Mining Co. We also find that his left foot and his head and face were mashed beyond recognition. Signed—T. L. Morrow, foreman; W. H. Croft, John Broady, Garland Jones, Andrew Johnson, Amos Hawkins.

Later the coroner learning that the man's name was Townsell and his home Allensville.

COUNTY WILL AID

Church Hill Farmers to Construct a Pike.

Road Supervisor Agrees to Grade the Roadbed and Crush the Stone.

Road Supervisor McReynolds was present at the Farmers' Institute Friday and made a very liberal proposition to the farmers of the Church Hill neighborhood.

He agreed to grade the Cox Mill road and crush the stone for a pike, if the farmers would furnish teams and drivers to scatter the stone.

The farmers along the road will accept the proposition and assist as much as they can and in this way this important thoroughfare will be gradually piked all the way from Hopkinsville to Church Hill, about six miles.

This is one of the principal roads of the county, and the only one without a pike for some distance out of Hopkinsville.

It was on this road that the much heralded "Good Roads Builders" last year built about two hundred yards of pike. This road was badly cut up last winter but can be repaired with but slight expense and this piece of pike made the nucleus of a good road.

WAIVED EXAMINING TRIAL.

And Case Goes Over to June Grand Jury.

The case of William Pulley, who killed James D. Brown, near Hawkins, two weeks ago, was called in the County Court yesterday for examining trial. The commonwealth announced ready, but the defendant waived preliminary hearing and the matter goes over until the grand jury meets for the June term of Circuit Court. Commonwealth witnesses were recognized to appear before the grand jury on the 3rd day of the term.

WILL HARLOW DEAD.

Virginian Well Known in This County Passes Away.

Mr. W. O. Harlow, a relative of Capt. S. R. White, of Julien, and who spent a month with relatives in Christian county a few years ago, died at his home at Orange, Va., last week. He was 44 years old and unmarried. He was taken with pneumonia while attending the Charleston exposition and arrived home in a dying condition. He was a prominent real estate dealer at Orange. While in Kentucky he made many friends who will learn with regret of his death.

CAPTURED NEAR BELL.

Ed Wade, col., Rearrested but Later Dismissed.

Deputy Sheriff Will Starling captured Ed Wade, col., near Bell last Friday and brought him to this city. Wade is the man who escaped from a guard at the jail door about a month ago.

He was charged with having attempted an assault upon the person of Julia Springfield, col.

She refused to prosecute the case and Wade was released Saturday, the case having been compromised.

FELL FROM FENCE

And Broke Her Hip In The Joint.

Crofton, Ky., April 28.—Mrs. Rachel Parker, wife of Mrs. Bayless Parker, of Mannington, was the victim of a very serious accident. While attempting to get over a fence she fell and broke her hip in the joint. The fracture is a very bad one, and as Mrs. Parker is 78 years old, the chances for her recovery are considered slim.

FOREST FIRES.

Great Damage Done in Christian and Hopkins Counties.

Houses Burned, Tobacco Barns Destroyed, Fencing and Other Property Reduced to Ashes.

Forest fires in North Christian and on the edge of Hopkins county have caused a loss of several thousand dollars within the past week.

About 700 panels of fence were destroyed for Mr. Thomas Hord a mile north of the city and several farmers living near Crofton sustained losses.

Near Dawson, Carliss Melton's house and its contents, together with out-building fencing, etc., was burned.

In the same neighborhood Mrs. W. A. Morris lost all her fence which inclosed three hundred acre farm, much of it in wheat.

Pinkney Brown and his son Tom Brown lost 400 panels of fence in the same place.

William Jackson's barn filled with tobacco was destroyed entailing a $1000 loss.

Ben Ligon lost a tobacco barn and considerable fence.

Vince Jennings's barn, containing 500 pounds of tobacco, was burned and much fencing destroyed.

The fence around Mr. Lantoff's farm was destroyed.

George Wright lost a tenement house and considerable fence.

Above 900 cross ties and 3000 rails belonging to Jas. Aulsebaugh were burned. Several small buildings were more or less damaged.

During the past week farmers have been burning off new ground and the big wilds which blew every day caused the fires to become uncontrollable and the damage is incalculable but will reach far into the thousands.

STABLE STRUCK

By Lightning and Destroyed—Valuable Mare Killed.

During the severe electrical storm early yesterday morning lightning struck the large stable of the Luckett, Wake Tobacco company at Gracey. The building was destroyed, a mare valued at $200 was killed and about 60 barrels of corn, two tons of hay and some other valuables were also burned.

Another horse in the building was knocked down but not seriously injured.

The loss is probably $1,000. The property was partially insured.

Cook, of Empire, spent a week on Leatherwood creek, in Stewart county, Tenn., fishing. Their catch was hardly as heavy as was expected, but they landed enough game fish for table purposes during their stay and had some excellent sport. They returned Thursday night.

TOO FINE FOR USE.

Story with a Moral Told by Grandma Cook.

When Grandma Cook came home from the picnic she asked with interest about the different villagers whom she had seen for the first time, relates a writer in Youth's Companion.

"Who was the handsome young woman who poured the tea?" she asked. "A thin, pale, melancholy girl, very quiet. I did not see her smile once."

"Oh, that," said her niece, "is Annie Gordon. She's always that way." "Has she lost friends? She was not in mourning."

"No, her people are all living, but they are rather commonplace, while Annie is a girl of ideas and originality—almost a genius. She wrote very good poetry at school. But the Gordons are poor. They could not send her to college. She wanted so much to go abroad—to see Greece and Rome; but that, of course, was impossible. She is a saleswoman in Bryce & Potts' store. But she is always melancholy, as you see her now. She lives apart, makes no friends, hardly knows the name of her next-door neighbor. Always turning over in her mind her dreams, I suppose."

Mrs. Cook knitted in silence awhile. "It puts me in mind of Prudence Maxwell's shawl," she said. "Did I never tell you of that? Well, Prudence's uncle bought her a real cashmere shawl when she was a young girl. It was like a picture with its fine texture and dull, wonderful colors."

"Hang it up," we all said, "on the wall. Let people enjoy it. Nobody in the village ever saw such a thing. It will be a pleasure to us all."

"No, indeed," Prudence said. "I would fade. I can't spoil it that way." "So it was folded in tissue paper, put in a box and laid away."

"Prudence married, but the shawl was not just the thing to wear on her wedding morning. Her daughter grew up. We begged Prudence to give it to her as a bridal gift. 'No,' she said, 'I will leave it to her when I die.' Well, she died last fall. The box was opened and the shawl lifted out. It fell into rags. The moth had done their work, and all the beauty was wasted."

"Now, neither Annie Gordon nor any other girl has a thought too high or a fancy too fine for every-day use. If she would put her beauty or purity into her talk with her old father and mother or into her actions in the store, they would make her life beautiful and a blessing to the world."

SOME GOOD ADVICE.

Given on subject of Keeping Positions by J. J. Hill.

You can hold your position if you can fit yourself to its mold so as to fill every crevice. Be like a cake. At first it is soft, spongy dough, and is poured into a mold which it but half fills. As it bakes it rises, and crowds every crevice in the mold. No contented, it bulges over the top; it makes a cake larger than the mold will hold. So, young man and young woman, be larger than your mold. After you have filled every crevice and crevice of your position to advantage, work out at the top. It is the largest cake that brings the most money.

Always keep your promises. Your employer will never ask you to do more than is possible. Remember that an unfulfilled promise is as bad as a downright lie. Live within your means. Never let a month pass by that you don't put something in the bank. Saving is the first great basic principle in the foundation of success. Dress neatly and plainly, for an employer marks a man as a fool who appears himself with extravagance and glaring colors. Never try to win the favor of your employer by dancing your fellow workers. Shander always sticks. Show kindness to your fellow employees, but do not let it be forced kindness, for that deserves no thanks. Resolve slowly, and act quickly. Remember, it is better to be alone than in bad company; that you cannot give your employer or yourself full value, if you try to work after a night of dissipation; that silence, like cleanliness, is akin to godliness, and that a clear conscience gives sound sleep and good digestion, and clothes one in an impenetrable coat of mail.—James J. Hill, in Success.

Japan's First Branch of Promiss.

One feature of western civilization has just made its first appearance in Japan, where a native woman has brought out for breach of promise, hitherto an unknown procedure, in the land of the chrysanthemum. The lady in question is a wise young widow, who induced her well-to-do lover to sign an agreement that in case either party wished to back out he should forfeit 1,000 yen to the other. The prospective bridegroom broke the engagement.

STAGE COACH DAYS IN WEST.

Traveling at Rate of Four and One Half Miles a Hour.

The stage line between Atchison and Placerville, Cal., which ran daily coaches for about five years in 1860-'65, was the finest ever known in the stage coach business, says the Atchison (Kan.) Globe. In equipment no similar line could equal it. It was the greatest stage line on the globe, carrying passengers, mail and express.

In 1864-'65 it cost more for meals between Atchison and Denver than the railroad fare now costs, with meals. The run from Atchison to Denver is now made in something like 15 hours, as against six days in the stage coach days. At one time fare from Atchison to Denver was $175; the railroad fare at present is $15. The quickest time ever made by stage between Atchison and Denver was four and a half days. Ben Holladay, owner of the line, traveled by special coaches from Placerville, Cal., to Atchison, 3,000 miles, in 12 days and two hours, beating the regular daily schedule five days. The fast coach Holladay $20,000, but it was a great advertisement for his line. The stages, when crowded, carried 15 passengers, besides great quantities of mail and express.

One of the coaches used on the Atchison-Placerville line is now in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. After leaving Atchison it was operated on the Deadwood line, and was several times captured by Indians and outlaws. Once when captured by outlaws it carried $60,000 in gold. In this attack three guards were killed. "Buffalo Bill" heard that the old coach had been abandoned and went after it, using it for years in his wild west show. In London it carried the prince of Wales, and all the notables of Europe have examined it with interest. On the Fourth of July, 1895, this famous old coach was exhibited with the west show at Concord, N. H., where it was made. The owners and employees of the stage coach factory gave the historic old stage a great deal of attention, and in the parade it bore this sign: "1863—Home Again—1895." Another one of the old coaches is owned by J. Sterling Morton, at Nebraska City, and another is owned at Topeka, where it is still in use for rally-ho purposes.

Including Atchison and Placerville, there were 133 stations on the line, the longest in existence (1,913 miles). The fare was $225, or about 12 cents a mile. The stations were from 10 to 14 miles apart. Some days $2,000 was taken in at the stage office in Atchison for fare alone. Each passenger was allowed 25 pounds of baggage; each pound in excess cost one dollar, which was the price for carrying express. The fare in Denver during the war was $175, or 27 cents a mile per passenger. The stages were nearly always crowded and passengers were often compelled to wait several days at Atchison before they could be accommodated. A minister once refused to travel on Sunday and abandoned his trip. He did not get a chance to go until the following Sunday, and this time he concluded that under certain circumstances, traveling on Sunday was excusable. Sometimes passengers looked for a certain day sold out for a bonus of from $20 to $50, and waited for a later stage.

REMAINS OF ST. AGNES.

Missing for Nearly Four Centuries and Now Brought to Light.

Some excavations carried out in the catacombs, at the expense of Cardinal Knop, bishop of Breslau, and especially under the high altar and choir of the Church of St. Agnes Without the Walls, from which his eminence takes his title, have resulted in the discovery of the body of St. Agnes, one of the most interesting figures among the Christians of Rome. According to tradition she was a young girl who suffered martyrdom rather than sacrifice to the gods or accept a husband in one of the persecutions of the fourth century—probably that of Diocletian. About the year 1600 the casket containing her body was found on a marble slab in a subterranean vault under the church, and was re-interred by Pope Paul V. in a silver case. This case, with its contents, after being missing for nearly four centuries, has again been brought to light. British readers, familiar with the writings of the late Cardinal Wiseman will remember that Agnes is one of the leading personages in history, entitled "Fulda," which illustrates the life of the early Roman Christians.—London Tablet.

Take No Substitute.

A USE OF BOOKS.

Expands One's Outlook and Develops New Affinities and Interests.

One of the chief uses of books is found in their power of expanding the mental horizon and bringing one into relation with a vast range of interests that without them would be closed to us. A few persons may learn directly from Stanley or Nansen about his experiences or observations on his famous journeys, but in his books, what he saw and felt and thought is the property of us all. We plunge with one into the Dark Continent; we sail with the other into the frozen seas. The book serves the mind as the telescope does the eye. It may plausibly be said that the newspaper brings before us the story of the days as they pass, but it does not bring us into relation with the forces and tendencies and records of the past without which the present cannot be understood. Knowledge is not wisdom, but it is the raw material of wisdom. And beyond this, who can estimate the refining and strengthening influence that is brought to bear upon character by a familiarity through reading with noble sentiment and just interpretations of life. Let the English Bible, or Homer, or Shakespeare, or Wordsworth, or even a single gem like the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians, or Keat's Ode on a Grecian Urn—which is probably the most perfect poem in English—sink into memory's magazine and affection, and one's whole mental outlook and temper are transformed. He has developed new affinities, and is swayed by new influences.—Boston Watchman.

Noses Any Shape You Like.

The latest development in surgery is the molding of noses in paraffin, which is now being practiced in Vienna. In the deformity known as saddle nose the most remarkable results are said to be obtained. The process consists in the subcutaneous injection of paraffin, which before it completely sets is molded into the desired shape. A warmed syringe is charged with the melted compound and the needle is inserted between the eyebrows, just above the root of the nose. Then the compound is injected into the subcutaneous tissues as the needle is slowly withdrawn.

Cigarette Law in Ireland.

It seems that girls, as well as boys, of Ryeleigh, Ireland, have contracted the habit of smoking cigarettes, and the law allows any adult man or woman who finds a boy or girl smoking to give the young offender a sound spanking and to seize and destroy any cigarette found in his or her possession.

CHINESE DOCTORS.

A Number of Them Practice Their Art in New York.

Pills as large as walnuts and the bitterness of medicines in pint and quart doses are regularly prescribed and taken in Chinatown without serious loss of life, says the New York World.

There are a score of native Chinese doctors practicing in New York who do their patients in this manner. These so-called physicians are literally thousands of years behind the medical times, yet by their countrymen they are preferred to American doctors. Not one of them can speak English, or has seen the inside of a medical college.

The proportion of native Chinese doctors to the Chinese population is very large. The Chinese section of the city is also plentifully supplied with Chinese drug stores, where the outlandish herbs, drugs and medicines of the country are temptingly displayed. Neither the Chinese doctors nor their apothecaries are licensed by the County Medical society, nor have they the power to issue death certificates.

When a Chinese doctor loses his patient it becomes a coroner's case. The Celestials, however, manage these things very cleverly. When they find that their patients are likely to die they quickly tell them so, and advise them to call in an American physician, so that the death and burial may be regular.

The Chinese physician is self-appointed. Even in his native country he is not required to pass any examinations or take any degree.

He gains his medical knowledge, such as it is, by reading the Chinese books of medicine and sometimes by practising under an older physician. As might be expected, his ideas and methods are startling as compared to those with which we are familiar.

He never takes the pulse or the temperature of his patient. He knows practically nothing about surgery, and is deeply prejudiced against the use of the knife.

He cures, or pretends to cure, by administering concoctions of herbs. When the case is very serious, as, for instance, when a man is badly mangled, the doctor merely increases the size of the dose.

There are but two forms of treatment, according to this ancient system of medicine. The commonest prescription is the Chinese pill, and seldom more than one of these is prescribed at a time.

These pills are frequently an inch in diameter, and are pretty certain either to kill or cure. The pills are covered with a coating of wax, and are soft and spongy.

It is, of course, impossible to swallow such an object whole, and the pills are slowly eaten. In some cases the pills are mixed with sugar or some flavoring, which makes them fairly palatable.

The average liquid dose is from a pint to a quart, and is drunk from a bowl at a single gulp.

The Chinese are great believers in the virtues of the extract of certain roots and glands in the cow.

HOW DOCTOR BECAME KNOWN.

Painted His House an Outlandish Color for Advertising Purposes.

A West side physician has hit upon a new way of attracting attention to his office and setting the tongues of gossip a-wagging. Recently he had his house—a frame structure—painted a most outlandish color. The shade of the paint on the building proper is bad enough, but the border and the color with which he had the veranda decorated are infinitely worse.

The other day a neighboring druggist, referring to the fact that people were commenting on the appearance of his house, asked the doctor why he had chosen so odd a color.

"Well, you see," replied the disciple of Esculapian, "people will talk about Dr. Blank anyway, so I thought I would give them something to talk about."

German Dolls.

It takes 80 men to make a German doll. Each man makes a small portion of the doll, but it is the same bit all the time, and 1,000 dozen dolls can be made in a day in some of the big factories. After the men finish the body portion of the doll the women's work begins. They paint, dress the dolls and pack them for the market.

Electric Light in India.

One provincial town in Bengal, and that a purely native one—Dacca—is entirely lighted by electricity. This is due to the public-spiritedness of the noble Duke of Sutherland. He has had an installation laid down, costing nearly four lakhs of rupees, or over $20,000, at his own expense.

An interesting narrative of facts. Explains the "Mystery of the Flying Squadron" and settles conclusively every adverse ruling of the Court of Inquiry.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, when Governor of New York, said:—"Mr. Graham's story is the best account I have heard of read of the naval fighting during the war. I needed just such a story as this to give me a picture of it as it did work the gun."

Now that has ever been before the public that has interested every body as the manner in which Admiral Schley has been treated, and the American people demand the full recognition of the hero of Santiago. THE HILLS OF HOPE.

Between the lines of shadow, some rays of sunshine rest.

On valley, plain or meadow, or on the mountain's crest;

And in the scene's pleasure, though sorrow clouds the way

Slips in with love's heart-treasure and brings the bliss of May.

Soul questions soul in meeting: "Ope Vales!" but mute lips

Give voice to hopeful greeting, as out of life it slips.

Though the journey onward, our feet in darkness grope;

Yet, like our faces toward the hills of Hope.

From out earth's dusky bowels, the whitest lilies bloom.

So years that seem so lonely and lives that are brief

May be but waiting only God's hour to crown with bliss.

—W. E. FALOR, in National Magazine.

THE MARQUISE RING.

"About the meanest thing I ever did," said Sam McPeckers, who had served as a volunteer through the Cuban campaign, "was to steal brandy off the dead dogs. Every man Jack of them had a flask. I guess it was the most brandy ever distilled, but it tasted mighty good to me, and as I say, I stole it and drank it and felt like a ghoul all the time."

"Ah, you're very theine-kinned," growled Heathcote, a Harvard man who had come to be a Texas Ranger because he was plucked at West Point; "if you want to feel real downright 30 cents you ought to try peackmaking between a woman and a wife-beating husband. I did. You remember it, don't you, Harris?"

The time I came from Lexington in an ambulance, I made peace between them, all right, but what they did to me 'between them' was a plenty. Robbing dead dogs is a Sabbath pastime compared to peackmaking, and twice as remunerative."

"Neither one of you knows what he's talking about," drawled Collins, who was doing his second year on the frontier with his regiment, and held the record as the only officer in it who was not pulling wires for detached service. "One of you is a thief and the other a fool, but I can tell you an experience that made me look like a thief and feel like a fool for a long time."

He got a fresh bottle of the cupboard, sent the Chinaman for another siphon, and said:

"You remember, Heathcote, while I was at the academy I was a former running back to Cincinnati to spend a day, a week or a month, or whatever time I could get on sick leave, bogus telegrams or other subterfuges. Well, they were all bogus, but I had a reason, or thought I had, for going there so often. Woman? Yes, of course, it was a woman. That is, she was the making of a fine and beautiful woman. She was a mere girl then, just come 18, and as gentle and generous as a soul ever lived. I might as well admit that I had my heart set and my hopes built on her and—lost. I didn't find out that part, the loss part, though, till my last visit to Cincinnati, and as that's what I started out to tell about I'll just begin there."

"Well, I don't think Edith—that was her name—I don't think she ever knew how I felt toward her, you see. I was a little fellow, and she was a girl or she wouldn't have invited me to that theater party. I don't know exactly how her mother sprung it, but, anyhow, we hadn't been in Edith's house five minutes before everybody knew that she was engaged to Herbert Humphreys, a spruce little dandy with light-colored eyes and clothes that would have made Freddie Gehard look like a costermonger. I didn't like him first, last nor any time, but of course I was a prejudiced party."

"Well, I was assigned, that's what you call it, I guess; I was assigned to Fannie Ziegler—you know the Zieglers, Heathcote? Brewers, you know, and we went off to the theater in a lot of carriages, the girls all talking about the coming wedding and what lovely things would be pulled off, and what a lovely time it was Edith had, and you—you can just guess how I enjoyed that theater party. I don't remember what the play was or who was in my carriage besides Fannie or anything about it except that one of the party was a girl cousin of Edith's who had come from New Orleans to be leading lady, or bridesmaid, or whatever it is she was wedding."

"Well, sir, she was a stunner! I think if I hadn't been so fazed on Edith I'd have gone after that cousin. Her name was Corinne Forgeron, a blond creole with purple eyes and a form! Oh, say! I've seen her only once since then, but it was too late. I'm always too late on the wooing business, but wait. That comes in the story, too. We were at the theater, weren't we? Well, I noticed this spruce Humphreys, Edith's fiance, seemed to make better headway with the creole goddess than any of us. I was dying to 'whelm my woe'—that's in a poem—I was dead anxious to get next to her, but so help me, that infernal puppy had a way with him that distasteful as all I began to wonder what Edith thought of it. I sudden flirtation that made all us men so weary. Maybe the girls didn't notice it, or maybe they didn't let on, for they all saw that Corinne was a winner from Winnerville."

"The last thing I remember at the theater was Humphreys showing Corinne the beautiful ring that he had given to Edith as a guerdon of their troth. It was a peach and no mistake. I think they called it a marquise, at any rate its setting was an oblong oval, rimmed with diamonds, but the peculiarity of it, and I think its chief beauty, was the green glory of the two emeralds set at the far ends of the oblong. Corinne looked at it and then at Humphreys in that awful way these women with velvet eyes have said: 'I'd say yes myself to a ring like that.' Then she laughed in that limp, coddling way a certain class of women have and Humphreys—he was a forward imp—slipped the ring on her pump, white finger to see how it looked. Edith's mother was with us, chaperoning the party, but nobody except me seemed to have any evil thoughts, and I even suspected myself."

"I've got back to the house without anything more thrilling than small talk, and after a nice little supper, at which, I thought, Humphreys and the creole kept up a pretty steady exchange of rather tropical compliments, we all went into the music-room for a song. I think there were eight besides Edith's mother in the party, all nice young people of the very best families in Cincinnati, and all old friends except Humphreys and the New Orleans cousin."

"She was a New Orleans cousin. She fitted in all right, at least with the men, but Humphreys—I just couldn't help giving him out as an interloper, a nuisance, a what you might call 'cheap skate.'"

"Now for the ugly part of it. Somebody asked Edith to sing a ballad, and of course we all insisted. She sat down to the piano, fingered the keys a moment, took off the beautiful marquise ring, laid it on the top of the music stand, and began to play and sing. I think she played four or five things before we would let her stop. She was an exquisite pianiste and one of those amiable girls who loved to give pleasure without being coaxed. She didn't require any notes, and as she played we wandered about the big room or sat still to enjoy the effect. I noticed that some of the girls couldn't resist picking up the ring. They were all anxious of it, and if I'm not mistaken Humphreys stood for quite awhile near the piano. At any rate, it was during the music that I got my only chance to whisper to Corinne Forgeron. That's what makes me think Humphreys must have been the piano."

"When Edith got through playing and looked for her ring it was gone! She laughed at first and called on us to 'quit joking,' when we had lighted all the lights and crawled all over the floor and lifted everything movable, poor Edith began to pout, and, well, you can imagine how we felt. No servant had entered the room. The top of the piano was closed, it was an upright one, and we moved the instrument four times in the vain search. The men looked sheepishly at one another. The girls looked mystified and scared. Only Humphreys kept up his front. No body wanted to go first and every body knew it was time to go. I, for one, was convinced that there was a thief in the company, and naturally I suspected it was Edith's fiance, when I hated cordially. Finally, in a burst of long suppressed anger, I suggested that the men should retire to the parlor and search one another. That made the girls angry and Edith began to cry. But that was all right, feeling like a lot of whipped curs, all but Humphreys. He had the impudence to keep reassuring us, said that no doubt the ring would 'turn up,' and so forth, till I felt like choking him. Then he said something to poor Edith about her 'carelessness,' and, upon my word, if Fannie Ziegler wasn't hanging to my arm I'd have smashed him over his head."

"But we all went home and, to tell the truth, I thought perhaps Humphreys was sufficiently punished when I heard about a week later that he and Edith had quarreled and that the match was broken off. Oh, yes, I tried tentatively to see her, but she never saw anyone after that. Corinne Forgeron went home to New Orleans and went back to West Point. Poor Edith's wedding never came off, but I'm sure she's happier than if she had married Humphreys. Anyway, she wasted away and I—but that's another story."

"I hadn't been down here at Fort Bliss two months when I got an invitation to the wedding of Corinne Forgeron to Herbert Humphreys. I couldn't go to it and wouldn't if I could, but I was summoned just then to Washington, and, just for meanness—for I hated them both—I dropped off at New Orleans and called at the Forgeron mansion to see the tawny creole. I didn't stay five minutes."

"She put out her big, white hand toward mine, but before I touched it I saw the ring. It may be a case of 'Blest not quit and y'pore,' but, follows, if it wasn't poor Edith's ring I'm a liar or an imbecile."—John H. Rafferty, in Chicago Record-Herald.

Industrious Statisticians Figure Out the Cause of Our Increasing

Taking a verse from Revelations as the basis of computation, some industrious and probably uneasy fellow has again been figuring out the dimensions of Heaven, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat. The text is verse 15, chapter 21, and reads as follows: "And he measured the city with the reed, twelve furlongs. The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal." He computes that this represents a space of 400,125,000,000,000 cubic feet. The enterprising statistician sets aside one-half of this space for the Throne and

ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce

JOHN J. HANSEN,

Of Hopkins county, as a candidate for Congress in the Second congressional district, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Election Nov. 1902.

We are authorized to announce

JUDGE E. P. TAYLOR,

Of Daviess county, as a candidate for Congress in the Second congressional district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

MR. JOHN B. REEL,

Of Christian county, as a candidate for Railroad Commissioner in the First Railroad District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Election Nov. 1902.

The new game of Ping-Pong, now raging in New York, is to be the fashionable fad this season at all of the watering places. It has not struck Hopkinsville yet.

John Westover is not especially strong on spelling Scriptural names. In a Hat Springs letter to his paper, the Williamson County, he calls it "a modern word of Silome."

If Roosevelt is in earnest about breaking up the Railroad Trust, the Beef Trust and the Sugar Trust the people will applaud his efforts and let him eat with whom he pleases.

Commonwealth's Attorney Jake Rowe was acquitted at Owensboro of a charge of malfeasance in office. Jake seems to possess the faculty of alighting on his feet, no matter from what altitude he is dropped.

The Confederate Veterans in reunion at Dallas again elected Gen. John B. Gordon commander-in-chief. Other officers were also re-elected. Memorial services for the late Gen. Wade Hampton were held one day of the reunion.

Berry Howard, like Garnett Ripley, goes clear in the conspiracy cases, making two acquittals and three convictions. Howard was accused with the "mountain army," but the jury did not believe the evidence connected him directly with the actual murder of Wm. Grebel.

The Baptist church at Little Rock, Ark., is trying Gov. J. E. Davis for "gross immorality," understood to be drunkenness and lecherous shortcomings. He is liable to be turned out of the church, although he has asked for a letter of withdrawal.

Shocks of the earthquake in Central America last Friday were registered as far north as Baltimore, Md. At the Johns Hopkins University observatory in that city the film of the seismograph indicated the heaviest earth disturbance since the machine was put in operation.

The Harrodsburg Herald says there is an old negro woman near that place who has not uttered a word in 40 years, as the result of a vow made when her husband was sold during the days of slavery. President Roosevelt should give her a place of some sort in the war department, as an object lesson to his army officers who run to the other extreme.

The Small of the Back

That is where some people feel weak all the time.

They are likely to be despondent and it is not unusual to find them borrowing trouble as if they hadn't enough already.

The fact is their kidneys are weak, either naturally or because of sickness, exposure, worry or other influences.

"I am thankful to say," writes J. L. Campbell, of Sycamore, Ill., "that Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me. For many years I was troubled with backache. At times I was so bad I had to be helped from the bed or chair. I am now well and strong and free from pain." What this great medicine did for him it has done for others.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Promises to cure and keeps the promise. Begin treatment with Hood's today.

JUDGE E. P. TAYLOR.

We today announce Judge E. P. Taylor, of Daviess county, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

Judge Taylor is a stranger to most of the Democrats of Christian county, but he enters the race with the hearty endorsement of the Democrats of his home county.

During the last four years Judge Taylor filled the office of county judge, and while judge of Daviess county he revolutionized the system of road working and left as evidence of his economy and business sagacity, $25,000 to the county's credit on his retirement.

In commenting on his candidacy the Owensboro Inquirer (his home paper) says: "His announcement ought to bring satisfaction not only to Judge Taylor's personal friends in the district, but to those who want to see the district represented by a man of more than ordinary ability, of ripe experience and of the highest character.  He is a finished scholar, a good speaker and a gentleman."

The Owensboro Messenger, another of his home papers, says: "Judge Taylor is in the prime of life, is a courteous and polished gentleman and an able speaker and the good impression of him that now prevails will grow when he enters into the campaign."

When the money question began to divide the Democratic party Judge Taylor was inclined to the gold side of the controversy, but as an honest man he made a close study of the question and came out unequivocally as a bimetalist, giving earnest support to Bryan in 1896 and 1900. He made many strong speeches on behalf of the Democratic party and its candidates.

Although he practiced law for a number of years he has always been closely identified with the farming interests and possesses, therefore, a familiar knowledge of the farmer's wants.

Judge Taylor was in this county last week to attend the Farmers' Institute at Church Hill, and although he made no canvass for votes, he impressed all who met him as a dignified and courteous gentleman, who as Congressman would make a most creditable representative.

Hon. I. B. Nail, commissioner of agriculture, was greatly pleased with the success of the Farmers' Institute at Church Hill last week. He says the meeting was the best one that has been held. The full and official report will be published in the KENTUCKIAN within a week or two, as soon as it can be prepared by Col. Nail.

Judge Warner E. Settle, of Bowling Green, has no opposition for appellate judge in the Second district and the call for a convention will be rescinded and the nomination made by acclamation.

Louis Smith, a wholesale counterfeiter of postal cards, has been jailed at Chicago.

Berry Howard was acquitted by twelve Democrats.

Nothing in It.

Several young white men of the Bennettsburg neighborhood were tried in the County Court yesterday on a charge of kukuizing made by a negro woman, who claimed that they took her out of her house and whipped her. All were acquitted.

MISS REYNOLDS.

New and Formidable Candidate For Queen.

All arrangements for the Elks' Carnival to be held during the week of May 19 to 24, are about completed, and there is no doubt but that it will be the biggest thing of the kind ever held in Hopkinsville. The various committees are all hard at work and are determined to make a success of the big undertaking.

A very interesting feature, and one that grows in popularity each day, is the voting contest, by means of which one of the city's fairest girls will be selected Queen of the Carnival. The contest for Queen is becoming exciting. An entire new candidate was entered in the race Saturday who started with support enough to give her a slight lead. This was taken from her during the day, but she again gained largely in the vote of yesterday morning, which has not been counted. Miss Annie May Reynolds was the new entry, who is proving so formidable. The standing of the five leading candidates Saturday night was:

Miss Elizabeth Morris..... 427
Miss Annie May Reynolds..... 403
Miss Tony Ware..... 271
Miss Ethel Gunn..... 162
Miss Alice Scobey..... 153

The Elks' headquarters have been moved to 101 South Main.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are weak or out of order, they fail to do their work. Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or untimely heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is overworking in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail. Send 3 cents in stamps, or a sample bottle telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this ad when writing Dr. Kilmor & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

A freight wreck occurred on the I. C. road, a few miles from Central City Saturday morning. The third section of freight train 154, north-bound, collided with freight train 181, south-bound, on a sharp curve, on the edge of an embankment. The engines came together head-on, with a crash, and both were badly demolished. The engines and firemen jumped, and fortunately no one was hurt. Several cars were badly damaged. Passenger traffic south was delayed four hours.

Her Son's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"A neighbor ran in with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when my son was suffering with severe cramps and was given up as beyond hope by my regular physician, who stands high in his profession. After administering three doses of it, my son regained consciousness and recovered entirely within twenty-four hours," says Mrs. Mary Haller of Mt. Crawford, Va. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

BIT BROKE

And Operations Were Suspended For a Few Days.

At a depth of 100 feet Fowler Bros., who are operating eight miles west of Crofton for the Sand Lick Development company, had to quit work on account of breaking the bit near the bottom of the hole. A new site will have to be selected before operations can be resumed, unless the drill point can be drawn out.

More green oil was struck at a depth of 900 feet and the indications are most favorable for a gusher when the proper depth, as calculated, is reached.

Better Than Pills.

The question has been asked, "In what way are Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets superior to pills?" Our answer is, "They are easier and more pleasant to take, more mild and gentle in effect and more reliable as they can always be depended upon. Then they cleanse and invigorate the stomach and leave the bowels in a natural condition, while pills are more harsh in effect and their use is often followed by constipation. For sale by all druggists."

A PLAIN STATEMENT

That makes Clear Certain Facts Concerning the Unfortunate Death of Miss Ligon.

Nashville Banner.

The untimely and deplorable death of Miss Henrietta Ligon of Fulton, Ky., who drowned herself at Belmont College March 27th, called for, and created great sympathy, for both the relatives of the unfortunate girl, and the faculty and student body of the institution.

The sudden and tragic death of Miss Ligon has been exploited by the sensational press with the result that unjust and unwarranted suspicions were put upon the college authorities. That these imputations and insinuations are baseless and wholly unfounded is attested by the fact that the father and relatives of Miss Ligon made a statement at the time of her death, absolving the faculty from all blame or censure, and it was expected that that statement would silence all unjust criticism of the management of the college. The statement did not accomplish its purpose, however, and Mr. Ligon has seen proper to make another, which ought to seal forever the pathetic and tearful chapter in the annals of an honored institution.

MR. LIGON'S STATEMENT.

"Fulton, Ky., April 22, 1902.—To the public: My attention has been called to certain rumors concerning the death of my daughter, Henrietta Ligon, who, in a fit of temporary aberration, drowned herself in a pool at Belmont College Nashville, Tenn., March 27, 1902. Although these rumors have been published without my knowledge or consent, I am unwilling for them to pass uncorrected, thus possibly doing injury to the worthy institution of learning where my late daughter was a carefully protected and kindly treated student.

"The principals and teachers of Belmont College know, and I am anxious that the public should also know, that I attach no blame to anybody for the tragedy which has brought so great sorrow to me, but for the victim I am confident that not even the victim herself was morally responsible, and which could never have been anticipated nor prevented by anybody else.

"In company with my nephew, Judge Herbert Carr, of Fulton, Ky., I went to Nashville immediately after the disappearance of my daughter, having been summoned there by the deeply distressed authorities of the college. These authorities every one gave us and my other nephew, Mr. Frank Carr, a Vanderbilt University student, who joined us in the search for the missing girl, every possible assistance and sympathetic attention.

"As a result of our absolutely thorough investigation of the whole matter, I came away with the body of my beloved dead, broken-hearted, of course, but profoundly grateful to every person at Belmont, and only the more deeply sorrowing because of the evident grief of those to whose care I had committed my only child, and who, though they had been altogether faithful to that sacred trust, had still not been able to prevent the death of a beloved pupil.

"If my daughter had been found alive by us, as I freely and frequently declared during our anxious and prolonged search for her, I would have returned her to Belmont College and now that she is dead, no friend of mine must credit any of the cruelly false rumors to the effect that at any time she was the object of unkind treatment, unjust accusation or undue reproach at the hands of the principals, teachers, or anybody else at Belmont College.

"Unfortunately and unfounded but unintentional misstatements on this subject having been published by the Murray Ledger and copied by other Kentucky newspapers and still other wholly erroneous insinuations of a similar damaging character having been printed in Metropolitan dailies throughout the country I have felt it my duty, in justice to Misses Hood and Heron, principals of Belmont College, thus to revive for the correct information of the public a sad story, concerning which everybody in anyway involved should receive only prayerful sympathy and not suspicion and criticism. ED. H. LIGON.

We cordially concur in the foregoing and fully endorse all our uncle has said in absolving Belmont College from blame in connection with our cousin's death, and in commending the faithfulness and worth of the principals and teachers of that institution.

DERBY DAY

Will Draw a Great Crowd Next Week.

Louisville, Ky., April 28.—The milliners and dressmakers in this city are working every hour during the day and part of the nights, making hats and gowns for the Derby Day crowd. It is a fact that it is almost impossible to get in an order for a dress to be finished before May 3rd, Derby Day, and a number of the fashionable set of Louisville and out in the State will attend this great race of the West clad not exactly as they would like to be dressed. In all the years which have intervened since 1875, when Aristides, the little red horse, won the first Kentucky Derby, the interest has never been as great as it is in this coming race. Every box was sold several weeks ago, and the parties were made up in Washington, New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Chicago, as well as Louisville. When Starter Holtman drops the red flag and sends these game brutes away from the post on the first Saturday afternoon in May, the crowd will undoubtedly be the most brilliant assemblage ever gathered together on the Western race course. The beauty and the chivalry of the West and the South will be there in all its glory, in beautiful costumes and many-colored hats.

Interest in the Derby has been intensified by the statement made yesterday by Tom McDowell that Allan A. Dale would certainly start in this blue ribbon classic of the western turf. This splendid son of Halma has been turning his work in good shape, and Louisville turf critics to a man believe that he will take the measure of the chestnut willow, the wisp, Abe Frank, winner of the Tennessee Derby. It ought to be a splendid duel, and as in former years, a long shot may win, but in the opinion of well posted turfmen the race will finally narrow down to these two great colts by the time the head of the stretch is reached in this heart-breaking journey of a mile and a quarter. It will be a test of courage and condition as well as of speed, and the colt that wins is certain to be the best in the race and the best in the West. The Jockey Club people expect that fifty thousand spectators will be at Churchill Downs when the wire is reached.

is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are exactly akin to the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach churn is "sour," it sours all which is put into it? The evil of a foul stomach is not the bad taste in the mouth and the bad breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of the blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath does for the churn—absolutely removes every taint or corrupting element. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant and no narcotic.

Late Literary News.

A series, which should have been named "The Enchantments of our Modern Aladdins," if considered solely from the point of view of romance, is begun in May Cosmopolitan. But these sketches possess as well a business interest equally for clerk and capitalist, for manufacturer, farmer and merchant. The man who would understand the drift of our news in finance and business must read these lives, so full of incident, of chance, of hard labor and marvelous success. As it is, the series receives only its common-place name of "Captains of Industry." Each character is treated by a noted writer familiar with his subject.

Excels in All Ways.

From its charming cover by Albert Herter to its last page the May Ladies' Home Journal excels in all ways. The most important new feature is the beginning of Ernest Thompson Seton's department for boys, which is written and illustrated by the famous naturalist-author-artist. Lindsay Denison, who knows President Roosevelt in a very personal way, writes in "The Outdoor President," and Helen Keller continues the marvelous story of her life. The fiction features are Miss Porter's "Those Days in Old Virginia," and the first part of a delightful story by Grace S. Richmond called "The Indifference of Juliet." Nellie Blanchard tells "How the Birds Build Their Nests," and Will Bradley shows the boudoir of "The Bradley House." Mr. Bok's editorial is a fine bit of sarcasm aimed at the wise New Yorkers, and Mr. Hale in his literary talk deals with the reading habit and several new books and writers of note. There's no end of good and helpful advice and interesting facts in the various departments, and the illustrations are conspicuously attractive. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. Daughters of the American Revolution.

This society was organized some years ago under the leadership of three patriotic women, two of whom were Kentuckians, for the purpose of promoting a love of country, and awakening patriotism which seemed to be dead or sleeping in the hearts of our people. The best way to do this is by studying the early history of our country, and becoming familiar with the characters and deeds of our ancestors, who gave their fortunes and lives to establish this republic, and to secure to us the many blessings of the liberty we now enjoy; and also to teach our children to revere their memory, and to prefer death to dishonor or to any stain on the bright escutcheons they have bequeathed to us.

This is a heritage of many generations and we can go back for centuries, and still find brave deeds, and honorable lives held up for admiration, even as we are taught, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."

The society has a membership of nearly fifty thousand, composed of the best and most substantial women of the entire country, and when all world for one object, can wield a mighty influence. There are two most important objects for which they are working, the Continental hall which is to cost two hundred thousand dollars, the site of which is now being selected, and the Monument to the martyrs who perished on the Prison Ships, for which a considerable sum has been raised. Of course the different chapters nearly all have some special or local work to do. The ladies of Hopkinsville, who are known to be willing to assist in any progressive movement, are asked to organize a chapter and to do their part in the work of this society.

SECRET MARRIAGE.

Lyon County Comes to the Front With Romantic Wedding.

The secret marriage in last issue was that of Mr. Joe B. Smith, a prominent farmer between the rivers and brother of County Clerk J. M. Smith, and Miss Sadie Crumbaugh, the handsome and accomplished daughter of County Judge W. L. Crumbaugh, says the Eddyville Tale of Two Cities.

They took their friends entirely by surprise, and were married by Rev. U. S. Tabor, at the residence of Mr. J. M. Smith, on April 8, but they guarded the secret so well that it was known to only three or four people until last Saturday. Both of the young people are exceedingly popular, and their friends everywhere wish them a long and happy life. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Mollie Crumbaugh Bennett, widow of the late Chief Justice Caswell Bennett.

He is clever to a fault and one of the best judges of goods and the needs of the people in the State—Eddyville Tale.

Good Rheumatism.

Last fall I was taken with a very severe attack of muscular rheumatism which caused me great pain and annoyance. After trying several cures, I decided to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I had seen advertised in the South Jerseyman. After two applications of this remedy I was much better, and after using one bottle, was completely cured.—Sallie Harris, Salem, N. J. For sale by all druggists.

Memorable Cavalry Review.

THE WELCOME RAIN.

Heavy Precipitation Yesterday Morning Ends the Drouth.

The dry spell, the effects of which were being seriously felt, was ended yesterday morning by a heavy rainfall. A slight shower Friday night did some good, the rainfall being .38 of an inch. The rain yesterday, though, was a real relief to the parched earth, the precipitation during Sunday night and up to seven o'clock Monday morning being 1.55 inches. This fall of nearly two inches in three days, with prospects of more, has given all growing crops a fine start.

Wheat of course is most benefited and it sadly needs something to bring it out.

Corn is just coming up and some of the tardy farmers have not yet planted. Those who planted in time will have all of the advantages of a seasonable start.

Strawberries are just dropping the bloom, and the rain could not have come at a better time for this crop, which promises to be very abundant.

Gardens will soon be growing nicely and in the city a great deal of attention will this year be paid to gardens, as vegetables bid fair to be very high in the markets.

THE REAL WILD WEST

Indians, Cowboys and Bronchos Gave Thrilling Exhibition.

Buckskin Bill's Wild West show yesterday afternoon and night in point of attendance was a success, and it was no less a success as an entertainment. The "braves" were real "bronzos," the Indians were real Indians and the cowboys rode with a solidity of seat and grace which gave them the stamp of being the real thing.—Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal, June 18, 1900.

Let it Alone.

Scott's Emulsion is not a good medicine for fat folks. We have never tried giving it to a real fat person. We don't dare. You see Scott's Emulsion builds new flesh. Fat people don't want it. Strong people don't need it.

But if you are thin Scott's Emulsion is the medicine for you. It doesn't tire you out. There is no strain. The work is all natural and easy. You just take the medicine and that's all there is to it.

The next thing you know you feel better—you eat better—and you weigh more. It is a quiet worker.

TIRED OF LIFE

And Stew Himself in the Loneliness of a Great City.

"After writing a note saying the act he contemplated was a 'sane one done in an insane manner,'" J. C. Arvin, aged 20 years, shot and killed himself Friday in his room in Chicago. A few minutes before he had been visiting in the parlor of the flat with his landlady, Mrs. Hannah Ray, and several of her neighbors. He expired before the physician arrived. The bullet entered his brain behind the right ear. Arvin was a cripple, and because of this was dependent upon parents and brothers. His home was at Pembroke, Christian county, Ky." The above paragraph from The Chicago Record-Herald tells of the tragic death of a crippled boy who lived between Pembroke and Trenton. No other details have been received.

THE TIME IS PAST

For cheap buggies. Very frequently you see a buggy of a superior make, such as WOODHULL, SCHACHT, TROY or COLUMBUS, that has been used constantly for TEN YEARS, some of them FIFTEEN YEARS. They cost nearly twice as much, but they last four or five times as long, and the people are finding out they have been making a grave mistake in buying the "CHEAP JOHN" grades. We notice this in the brisk trade we are having in the HIGH GRADE WORK this season.

We carry some cheap buggies too for those who haven't the means to buy the best. Our assortment contains a number of wire wheel fancy jobs. We are making good our promise to carry the biggest line of Buggies and Carriages to be found in any one house in the State.
